
"Nuggets" of Leadership

There is a difference in leadership and management.

Know your strengths and how you can self-improve.

Take advantage of challenging programs and projects.

Diversity of the workforce is vital.

You can benefit from knowing how to deal with conflict and opposition.

A highly effective Corps district values teamwork between its technical and administrative staffs.

Be situationally aware of challenges and opportunities.

Your career is shaped by others.

Be available to mentor and reach out to co-workers.

Be confident, yet humble, in your self-assessment.

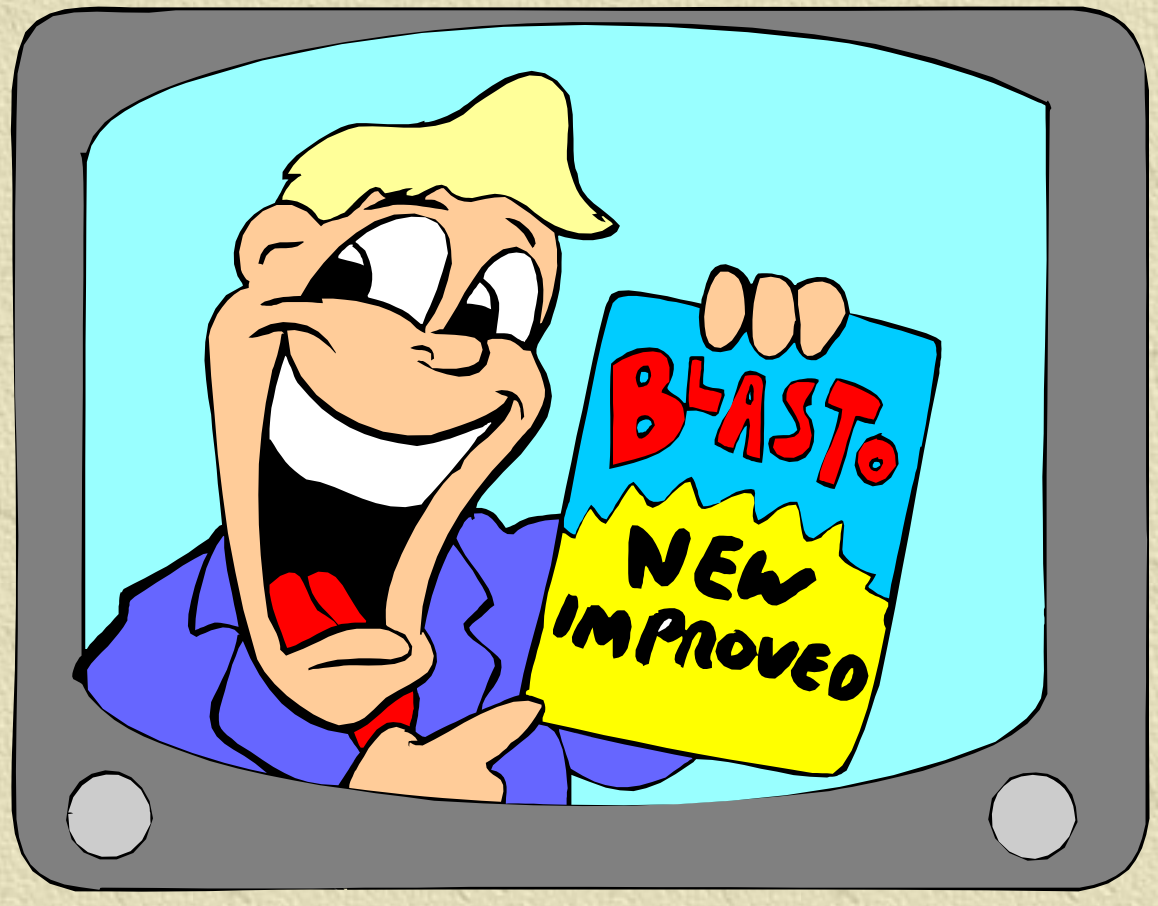
Be alert for people with leadership skills.

Develop an effective closing statement.

Don’t be afraid of career change opportunities.

IDP's and career advancement…….. it's your responsibility.

Have a 30 second commercial.



Sometimes you simply “gotta” take risks.

Five dumb things I have seen others do in job interviews.

Question